RADIANS COLLEGE, DC CLOSURE

Sept. 28, 2016

The Higher Education Licensure Commission (HELC) has been notified that Radians College has voluntarily ceased offering postsecondary education. The U.S. Department of Education has noted its official closure date as Sept. 23, 2016.

The following information is intended to ensure that students have important information regarding the closure of the Radian's campus in Washington, DC.

The following options are available to students enrolled in Radians College at the time of closure:

1. Students wishing to transfer to another institution may request an academic transcript from the HELC. We will provide one official copy or unofficial copy of a student's transcript at no charge until Nov. 31, 2016. Thereafter, transcripts will be available at the normal cost. The Transcript Request Form is available on the HELC website <http://osse.dc.gov/service/closed-postsecondary-school-transcripts>.

Students should contact the institution(s) they are interested in attending directly. The institution will evaluate the student's transcript according, may grant credit and charge tuition according to the institution's policies. The HELC is not involved in this process, except to provide the transcript as requested.

Below is a list of institutions that have expressed interest in providing transfer options for former Radians students.

DISCLAIMER: The list is being provided for informational purposes only. It is not an endorsement or recommendation. Students may feel free to contact any institution of their choice, including ones not listed below.
